Read the following passage and choose the correct answer

Events in life bring happiness or sadness. I myself was leading a kind of life envied by both close friends and relatives. My parents, who were simple and kind farmers, had a considerably large area of cultivated land. They brought me up and educated me in a model way, based on good morals and polite behaviour. Their constant support shaped the strong and hopeful outlook I carried into my early youth.

Between the age of 14 and 19, my eldest brother, who worked in a nearby bank, looked after me. I was like a son to him as he was twelve years older than me. He treated me gently and always spoke to me softly. Moreover, he used to help me to study my lessons. Those years were the best I have ever lived. It was a time of happiness and ease. I was then completely care-free. The time when my feelings of shouldering some responsibilities got clearer. Looking back, I realise that his guidance laid the foundation for the confidence I would later depend on.

However, I could successfully pass that stage. No pains, no drawbacks, just trifle mistakes which by no means had an effect on my life. After that, I got married and had two children, a boy and a girl. A year ago, I had another girl child. She is suffering from a disease which is well known, but incurable till the age of four. She has upset my life and my happiness has turned into tears. Yet, despite the fear and uncertainty, I continue to hold onto the hope that time will heal what we cannot change now.
